

A tree stands tall as a bee sottly lands on it and takes of again busying by suddenly a hum starts I look up but nothing then flying low to the ground is what looks like a Red dart I soon realize its a vermilion fly catcher its flying a inch of the ground gaining speed It suddenly swoops upward at the bee the bee tries to fly away but the fly catcher is so fast for the little bee the bird snags the bee in its beak and sottly lands in its perch another victory
