

Desert Earth Poem

Hello desert world!

I see you dry and coppery sometimes

Like an almond snack I ate for lunch or thick like a puma's soft chestnut fur in summer you have monsoon with raging torrents of water washing our streets and in winter you snow sometimes with very cold fluffy flakes

I wonder if you can hear me through the rocky mountain peaks and the arid land and through the bright sunny sky.

Sincerely, Gregorio Davila